Local Red Cross Asks $1,500 For Relief Work Here

Hatley White Announces Drive to Clean Up Winter Relief Needs

PART OF U. S. DRIVE

Red Cross Asking Nation for 10 Millions for Drouth Sufferers

The Hempstead county chapter of the American Red Cross has launched a campaign for $1,500 in Hope as part of the $10,000,000 program for the entire nation.

The announcement was made Thursday noon by Hatley White, disaster chairman for the county organization. Mr. White asked that gifts be sent in either to himself or to D. B. Thompson, treasurer of the Red Cross.

"We do not want to have to make in individual appeals," he said.

"Hope is asked to do its share in this campaign, in which the entire nation is coming to the relief of the drouth district."

"We have some few donations already, but we will need $1,500 in order to assist the national Red Cross organization in its relief of rural families in this county for the balance of the winter."

Beginning Monday, Mr. White will announce a list of givers, and The Star will report the progress of the drive every day.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Red Cross summary Thursday showed that 405,000 persons being cared for in the drouth relief measures covering a territory of 383 counties in 21 states.

The total amount of cash granted for this work up to noon Wednesday amounted to $615,000.

Chairman Payne said that calls for relief in Oklahoma and Texas had increased more than any other states during the past few days.

All but nine of 72 counties in Arkansas are receiving relief.

Poultry House at Magnolia Burned

Quick Work of Service Station Operator Saves Fowls

MAGNOLIA—One of the Magnolia A and M College colony houses of the poultry plant was destroyed by fire about 10 o'clock, Sunday night, January 11. There were only 40 fowls housed in the building at the time of the fire and due to the speedy work of J. T. Bussey, Manager of the Blue and Gold Service Station and Curtis Wright, a student, practically all of the equipment was saved as well as the chickens housed in the destroyed building.

Boy Kidnaped for Ransom Set Free

Corsicana Banker Asks No Official Action in the Case

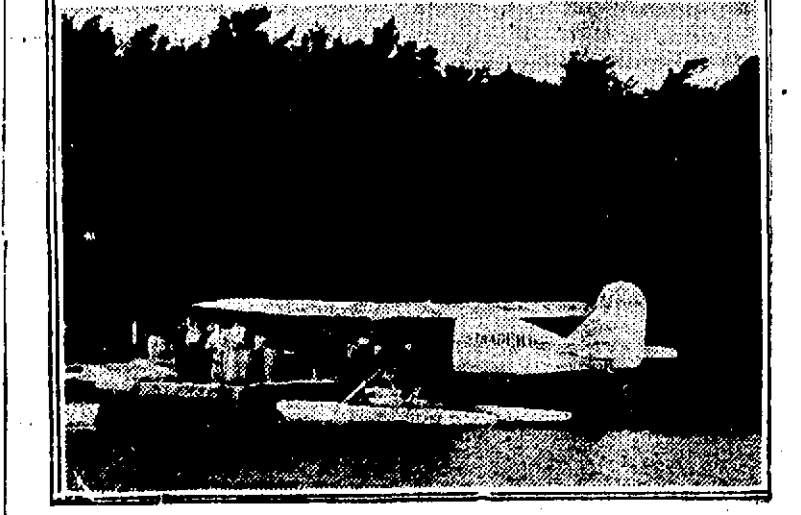

DALLAS—(AP)—J. Charles Gunning, Dallas chief of detectives, said Wednesday night he had received a report James Cori, son of Isaac N. Cori, Corsicana banker, was kidnaped in Dallas more than a week ago and held for ransom but was being safely returned to his parents.

Gunning said he took no official action in the case, at the request of the boy's father, and did not make the report public, as a private detective agency handled the case.

Seeks Vaccination Law for 14th Time

BOSTON—(AP)—For the fourteenth time in as many years, Dr. Samuel B. Woodward of Worcester has petitioned the Massachusetts Legislature for a compulsory vaccination law. The measure has been rejected 13 times. Under his bill a child would be prohibited from attending public or private school unless vaccinated, except when a physician's certificate was presented stating that the child's health would be endangered by vaccination.

Before Tradewind's Hop From Bermuda

Hope grew dim for the safety of the white seaplane Tradewind and its two flyers, Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren, when they were long overdue at Horta, Azores, on their attempted flight from Bermuda. The aviators are pictured at the top shortly before they took off from Hamilton, Bermuda, on what was to have been the second leg of their oceanic air voyage from the American mainland to Europe. Below, the Tradewind is shown in Hamilton harbor as it was grounded for continuance of the flight.

Legislative Sidelights

By HENRY N. DORRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—At least one precedent has been broken by the present house. It has named Miss Irene Thompson of Paragould, as a page, the first girl-page in the 100-year history of Arkansas legislators. Miss Thompson was named from the First congressional district, her appointment being sponsored by Representative E. E. Alexander of Mississippi county.

"Uncle" Henry Hollensworth, former senator from Ouachita county, famous for many things but particularly because he ran for congress last year and was disqualified because he failed to pay his own poll tax, is back in the state senate—as assistant sergeant at arms.

The venerable legislator, known all over the state for his wit and humor, guards the main portal to the senate chamber.

The first horseplay of the session was indulged in by the house over a resolution by Representative Stroup

Aid For College of Ozarks Sought

Chicago Committee Will Try to Raise Funds for Clarksville Institution

CHICAGO.—Oscar C. Hagen, realtor, has accepted the chairmanship of a committee to be formed here to raise funds for the College of the Ozarks at Clarksville, Ark., which will be forced to close unless $50,000 is raised immediately. Four consecutive years of misfortune have precipitated the crisis for the college.

Dr. M. D. Frampton, vice president of the college has written to Chicagoans informing them of the difficulties of the institution.

"We are facing a double crisis," Dr. Frampton writes. "We have a capacity of 400 students. There are now about 350 enrolled. It is impossible for us to keep these students without immediate financial assistance, and still more impossible for us to send them to their homes because there is nothing for them to do at home—nothing even to support or feed them."

"The College of the Ozarks being a self-help liberal arts institution, the students are kept busy when in class, either tilling the 105 acres of soil to provide food for their tables, or in the print shop, the dairy or the garment shop we maintain."

Printing Contracts Must Be Let By Bid To Lowest Bidders

Fight Led By Cannon Lasts Two Hours, But Is Successful

TO STOP BANK LOSSES

Two Measures Introduced for Insuring Bank Deposits

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Insurgent forces were successful Thursday in their first test strength over the senate concurrent resolution for letting mimeographing and printing contracts for both houses.

The original resolution provided authority for two members of the Senate and three members of the house to let the contracts, but as adopted by the house after a two hour fight, led by Cannon of Hempstead county, it was amended, providing that the committee receive bids and award contracts to the lowest bidders. Another amendment provided that the successful bidder furnish a surety bond.

Three amendments aimed to curb alleged extravagance in the 1929 session were adopted.

Two measures designed to prevent losses from bank and insurance failures were introduced in the senate. One by Senator Quarles, requiring banks to insure their total deposits with three surety companies, under which sureties would pay full deposits within twenty days.

Senator Hendricks introduced a measure under which domestic insurance companies are permitted to invest in federal, state and municipal bonds, but make loans for not more than half the value of real estate.

Life Sentence for Negro Boy, Aged 13

Convicted of Having Killed and Robbed Agent Nevada Co. Resident

PRESCOTT.—Clyde Alexander, 13-year-old negro boy, was convicted in Circuit Court here Wednesday of murder in the first degree and sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary for the killing of D. A. Fullerton, 80-year-old farmer near Boughton last September.

Alexander admitted that he struck Fullerton in the head with a rock and robbed him of $4. Physicians testified Fullerton's skull was fractured and his death 20 days later was caused by the fracture. Alexander's defense was that he was less than 12 years old and legally incapable of committing a crime. Witnesses testified Alexander and his father told them at different times the boy was 13 years old.

A. P. Jackson, negro, was convicted of robbing Hardy's garage and sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary.

Five Generations Nursed By Negress

Aged Negro Says She Was Sixteen at Time of Civil War

DARDANELLE, Ark.—(AP)—Five generations of the Eli Neely family, pioneer Arkansas residents, have been nursed by Aunt Nancy Scott, aged negress.

Aunt Nancy was left at the Neely plantation as a slave after she became ill while returning to the southern states from Texas with refugees from the Civil war. After her recovery she remained with the family out of gratitude for their care.

Aunt Nancy doesn't know her age, but "think" she was sixteen at the time of the Civil war.

Schooner Captain's Wife Assumes Role of Mate

BELLINGHAM, Wash.—(AP)—The four-masted schooner Commodore, the only sailing vessel operating from the Puget Sound, is being loaded with lumber for her 27th voyage from the Sound to Honolulu. Aboard her when she sails in a few days will be Mrs. Hansine Krantz, wife of the skipper, Capt. B. N. A. Krantz.

Mrs. Krantz claims to be not only the skrant mate of her husband, but his mate at sea as well. She has made eight voyages on the Commodore, taking weather observations, helping to keep the ship's log, and often determining its position by studying the stars.

Robbers Threaten to Burn Captive

Drench Clothing With Gasoline and Force Him to Produce Money

HOXIE.—Big town tactics were adopted early Wednesday morning by two men who held up Lee Pipes at a filling station in the south part of Hoxie.

When Pipes refused to respond with funds, the bandits rapped him to a post, drenched him with gasoline, and ordered him it would be showing wisdom on his part to "come through."

They got the money. They got his car. They left no clue.

Farmer's Turkey Flock Lives Up to Dreams

RUPERT, Idaho.—(AP)—For once agricultural mathematics worked out, and D. Grisanti, happy Jackson farmer, is the beneficiary thereof.

Early in 1930 Grisanti indulged in that sport of speculating on how much his flock of turkeys would increase during the season. It was fine fun to imagine squadrons of small turkeys following his hens.

Congress Passes $45,000,000 Seed Bill; To President

Direct Appropriation of $25,000,000 for Food Aim of Democrats

AMENDMENT IS OUT

Administration Assailed and Extra Session Is Threatened

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The emergency appropriation of $45,000,000 for seed loans to drouth-stricken farmers was finally approved Wednesday by congress but in its wake arose a new dispute over relief legislation.

Senate democrats proposed a direct appropriation from the treasury of $25,000,000 for the Red Cross to administer relief and threatened an extra session of congress in the spring, if necessary, to get it.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, offered the $25,000,000 relief proposals as the minority party yielded to the insistence of the administration controlled house for elimination from the drouth relief measure of the $15,000,000 food loan provision sponsored by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas.

Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, joined Robinson in offering the new proposition as an amendment to the pending agriculture appropriation bill. A two-thirds vote will be necessary to add the unauthorized fund to the supply measure, but Robinson is confident of the votes.

Hoover Gets Measure
The $45,000,000 measure went to President Hoover Wednesday night after the senate receded from amendments in dispute with the house is for loans for the farmers to put in this year's crop. It becomes available immediately.

During a long day of debate, democrats and republican independents in the senate bitterly assailed the administration for its opposition to the food loan provision and for its contention that the Red Cross which is now raising $10,000,000 for drouth relief work, can administer adequately to the needs.

Extra Session Threatens
Robinson gave notice that if the senate adds the $25,000,000 fund to the agriculture bill he would insist that its approval by the house even at the cost of defeating the entire measure. This would threaten an extra session for the bill carries funds for next year's operation of the agriculture department.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, just before the conference report was agreed to, took the administration to task.

"The issue, after all," he said, "is who is going to pay the bill of relief. The administration has closed the treasury doors and said they are not going to pay it. The administration is for exempting the large income tax payers and the corporations from paying a dollar, and on the backs of the small property owners will be placed increased taxes for relief."

Jones Urges Speed
Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee in moving recession on the food loan provision, said: "The more quickly we get the $45,000,000 appropriation the more quickly relief will come."

The $25,000,000 proposal of Robinson and Black would place no limitation upon the use of the money by the Red Cross.

It reads: "There is hereby appropriated the sum of $25,000,000 to be expended by the Red Cross for the purpose of supplying food to persons otherwise unable to procure the same."

Seven Men Injured By Gas Explosion

Three in El Dorado Hospital With Little Hope for Recovery

EL DORADO—(AP)—Seven persons were injured, three critically, in a gas explosion on a lease near Smackover early Thursday morning.

G. E. Elder, Johnny Bennings and Tom Cornish were brought to a hospital here where little hope is held for their recovery.

Four others suffered slight burns. All were members of a pipe line crew. The explosion occurred as the men attempted to take up an oil line from under a gas line, which broke and the gas was ignited by a nearby fire.

Mingling of Milk With Kick in Dairy Industry Here Curbed

TEXARKANA.—Milk with a kick no longer mingles with the conventional dairy product at Ernest E. Brooks' grocery, 821 Milan street.

Federal agents found nine or ten milk bottles in Brooks' refrigerator Monday. The bottles were painted white on the outside, and several of them were filled with whisky—more than three quarts in all. They were set back in the same compartment with the regular milk stock, and bore customary "Grade A" caps.

Tuesday Brooks made $250 bond before Mrs. E. S. Hughes, United States commissioner, on a charge of possessing whisky. Brooks declared he kept the liquor only for his own use.

To Start School Building Friday

History of Hope Heading Company Told By Lee Ewing

Work is to start on Hope's new high school Friday morning, according to an announcement made by Kiwanis Joe Floyd, at the regular Thursday noon meeting of this club, at Hotel Barlow. In line with the program for consolidation of school districts being encouraged by county superintendent E. E. Austin, and the state school department, four districts were added to the Hope district last year, Mr. Floyd stated. He understood several more districts might seek to be included when the high school building is finished. This building is expected to be one of the finest structures in Southwest Arkansas, he said. The architects advised the school board that it would be on a par with modern school buildings elsewhere. Mr. Floyd is a member of the board of education.

Lee Ewing, assistant manager of the Hope Heading company, told how his firm is now giving employment to 137 people in their plant here. This is an increase of 37 over the number employed one year ago. Mr. Ewing had been asked to give the club an outline of this industrial plant, one of the largest in Hope, as one of a series of talks on "Knowing your city." Mr. Ewing told how the firm manufactured tight barrel heads, for barrels destined for shipping food, and other products. Neighboring farmers find a ready market for their hardwood at this plant, which pays out thousands of dollars annually for this product. While the firm owns 6,000 acres of hardwood timber in the Little river bottoms, they buy from neighboring farmers, who do not have to haul their product so far to the plant.

The firm was founded in 1899, stated Mr. Ewing. Until 1920 it's business was almost entirely in making circle heading for whiskey barrels. New markets have been obtained until last year was the biggest year in the history of the firm. The heads are edged with "cat tail," a wood which grows in New York state, and which swells when liquid touches it. This is what is known as a tight barrel head, he said.

Dewey Hendrix had charge of the program. John P. Cox, Parks Fisher and John Swader were appointed by President R. V. Herndon to meet with committees from other clubs to attempt to get Will Rogers to stop off in Hope when he comes to Arkansas in the near future.

Business Crisis Is Past Says Edge

The Darkest Age Is Over Ambassador Tells the American Club

PARIS.—(AP)—Ambassador Walter E. Edge told the American club Thursday that America's darkest age of economic apathy and stunned business inertia was past. He said that the dark age following the most cataclysmic deflation of security markets in history would be superseded by a period of courageous effort under scientific leadership of the president and federal and state officials. He declared that the business crisis is past.

U. S. Drouth Loans to Depend on Him. Hempstead Learns

Letter From State Committee Read at County Meeting Wednesday

42 IN ATTENDANCE

Routon, Foster and Stephens Are Hempstead Committee

Forty-two members of the Hempstead county drouth relief organization met at Hope city hall Wednesday afternoon and learned that a county agent must be hired immediately. This district is to get its share of the $45,000,000 federal crop plan to be issued this spring.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the county drouth relief committee, Routon, chairman; W. Y. Foster, both of Hope; and H. M. Stephens, of Blevins.

Must Have Agent

A letter written him by Dudley Had dock, executive secretary of the state drouth relief committee at Little Rock, was made public by Mr. Foster. It read as follows:

"The Department of Agriculture will set up a field office in Memphis to serve five states, Arkansas among them. A farmer must obtain loan application blanks from his county agent, who will assist in executing them properly. After that they must be checked by a township or community committee and then go to county committee for further approval. The applications then go to the Memphis field office for still another check by officials attached to the Arkansas Extension Service, after which checks will be issued. It is our understanding that the loans will be made in installments."

He Is Key Man

"The county agent is the key man in the program; in fact he is about 90 per cent of the loan machinery. Hempstead is without a county agent this year and there is little doubt that farmers desiring loans will be seriously handicapped. It may be recalled that farmers in counties without agents seeking certificates last fall to enable them to take advantage of the emergency freight rates on hay and feed were forced to travel to adjoining counties and get them from agents there. A county agent in Arkansas during 1931 will be worth to the county a hundred times what he costs it. What arrangements will be made to place loans in counties without agents, I do not know; but regardless of what the Department of Agriculture determines upon, it stands to reason that a non-agent county may not be served as efficiently as one with its own agent."

Earthquake Kills Twelve in Mexico

Many Injured as Tremors Are Felt in Fifteen States

MEXICO CITY.—(AP)—Dispatches to the newspaper Universal, from Cacaes Thursday said that twelve persons were killed and nine injured there by an earthquake which shook all of southern Mexico Wednesday night.

One was killed at Mexico City. Much of Oaxaca was in ruins, many buildings having collapsed. The city was in panic and despite of intense cold, many inhabitants remained in parks during the night, afraid to sleep within the walls of their homes. Twenty-five persons were injured and more than 50 houses crumbled at Mexico City.

Fifteen state and federal districts were affected by the tremors.

Sleep By Shifts in Stuttgart Jail

Sixteen Prisoners and Only Ten Beds in the City Hotel

STUTTGART, Ark.—(AP)—Reservations are in order for accommodations at Stuttgart's city jail. With the winter season in full swing, the Stuttgart calaboose is the scene of a variety of winter sports—horse shoes, cards and discussions of sports.

Sleeping accommodations, however, seem to furnish a flaw in the enjoyment of the city's uninvited guests. Only ten beds are provided by the jailer and has necessitated introduction among the guests of the program of sleeping by shifts.

A setback For Society

THE lynching of Raymond Gunn, negro murderer at Maryville, Mo., is one of those horrible events which will cause historians, a century or two from now, to conclude that American civilization in the first part of the 20th century was little better than barbarism. The news stories of it were grim reading. It will not be easy to forget them.

However, in expressing abhorrence of an affair of this kind, there is one point that ought to be made clear. One's disgust as such a spectacle arises not from a feeling of sympathy for the victim, but from a feeling that it is society as a whole that has been the chief sufferer.

After all, no very great amount of sympathy is due a man who criminally attacked and battered to death a young woman. His death was dreadful to contemplate, of course; but for that matter, so was the death of his victim. It is relatively easy to control one's tear ducts as far as the object of the mob's wrath is concerned.

But the trouble is that the ill effects of a lynching do not stop when the fire has finally died down and the ashes of the luckless victim have been scattered. They linger on for years, coloring entire lives and lowering the plane of whole communities.

According to the dispatches, approximately 2000 men were present when Raymond Gunn was chained to the roof of a school building and burned to death. Of this number, probably not more than two dozen or so were active participants. But all were at least spectators—and, to that extent, passive actors in the tragedy.

Are any of those men better men, today, because of what happened that afternoon? Has that outbreak of mad passion done anything to make Maryville a better place to live, a better place to bring up children? Has it increased the amount of tolerance, understanding, charity and forbearance in the hearts of any of those people?

Civilization, in the long run, is simply a process of trying to raise all of mankind to a higher spiritual and mental level—an attempt, as Tennyson put it, to "move upward, working out the beast, and let the ape and tiger die." That is why a lynching is such a shocking thing. Not because one man is made to suffer frightfully; but because all of society gets a sharp, definite setback.

Tough on The Automobile

FIFTY-ONE per cent of the state revenue last year came into the state treasury as a penalty on the ownership and operation of an automobile. Comptroller Reed has just made up his summary of the distribution of the tax burden.

The automobile paid more than half of all the taxes collected. The five cents a gallon gasoline tax and the automobile license brought in more cash than all the property owned owned in the state. Much more.

The state property tax produced 21.5 per cent of the state's revenue for the year. Just a little more than one-fifth.

The severance tax produced 3.5 per cent; the income tax produced 5.25 per cent, and the tobacco tax 6 per cent.
Insurance tax, game protection fees, inspection fees, franchise and inheritance tax paid the other dribblings into the state cash box.

Can you imagine that tobacco is taxed for one-third of all that property in the whole of the state is taxed for? Rather hard on the tobacco users, but they can pay or else.

The tobacco consumer is usually the automobile operator.
Between these they paid three times the state tax paid by all the real estate in the state of Arkansas.

The distribution of the tax burden is interesting. The property owner complains of high taxes. Just what would the tax burden have been on real estate if it had not been for the automobile owner and the tobacco consumer?—Hot Springs Sentinel-Record.

The Merger That Failed

IT IS altogether too early to tell whether the court decision throwing out the billion-dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., with the Bethlehem Steel Corp. is the end of a campaign or just another battle in a long struggle.
Bethlehem Steel does not ordinarily give up after one defeat;
on the other hand, the fall in the price of steel stocks since the merger was first planned has led some observers to believe that many who were enthusiastic for the merger before will be much cooler towards it now.

At any rate, just at present the honors seem to go to Cyrus Eaton, the middle western steel magnate who has fought what is so far a successful fight to preserve the autonomy of a large middle western industry. Those who have the traditional fear and distrust of Wall Street will probably rejoice with him at the rebuff that the courts have given to Wall Street's plan.—El Dorado Evening Times.

What is the most valuable quality
that a person can possess, to make him or her a successful Auction or Contract player?

No doubt you will all answer, "Card
Sense," but the writer is of a contrary opinion. A good, equitable disposition is worth more at the card table than any other quality. The world loves a grin and has no use for the scowl. Apply this rule to Auction or Contract and you will soon get the point. It's the player who can take his losses and bad breaks with a grin who gets there. He isn't rattled himself and, what is even more to the point, he doesn't rattle his partner.

Think over in your own mind how many tricks you have lost, either by losing your own temper or causing your partner to lose his. Loss of temper inevitably means loss of tricks. Every one cannot be an expert, but every one
can and should be an agreeable player.
Keep your temper and your grin and
the tricks will take care of themselves.
There's nothing like a good temper as a sound foundation for successful play.

If you don't believe it, try it out, not for one night or one week, but for several months. If you haven't matterially improved your play and your bank account by that time, then I shall be very much surprised. Remember, the smile wins at Auction or Contract, as it does everywhere else.

It usually is on the bidding that the big losses occur, both at Auction and Contract, and the three following hands are good examples, bringing up, as they do, points in bidding that the average player should know and understand.

AUCTION BIDDING:
No score. Y dealt and bid one no trump. A and Y passed and B bid two trumps. Z and A passed. What should Y now do?

There are two sound bids that he could have made, one of two no trumps and the other of three diamonds. The two no trumps seems the sounder bid.
Y has a no trump hand himself and must figure that Z has a stopper in the spade suit.

If Y had bid two no trumps in this instance, he and his partner would have scored four no trumps. Y, however, decided to bid three diamonds.
B bid three spades and Z and A passed.
At this point Y made a great mistake.
Having once decided to bid diamonds, he should have rebid at least once, but for some unknown reason failed to do so and passed B's three-spade bid. If he had bid four diamonds, he could have scored game. As it was, B made three spades with simple honors.

CONTRACT BIDDING:
Z one no trump, A pass, Y three diamonds. Such a bid is a forcing bid and indicates a strong hand and a good chance for game. B will pass and Z will bid three no trumps.

Probably very different with this hand. No good Contract player would consider a no trump bid with Y's hand.
B would thus open the bidding with one spade, Z probably would bid two clubs, A two diamonds and Y would then be justified in bidding five clubs, both as a try for game and as a shut-out of a game bid by B. This bid would be defeated one trick, but would prevent A from scoring a game in spades.

How to play Bridge

AUCTION or CONTRACT

by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1930, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 36

What is the most valuable quality
that a person can possess, to make him
or her a successful Auction or Contract
player?

No doubt you will all answer, "Card
Sense," but the writer is of a contrary
opinion. A good, equitable disposition is worth more at the card table than any other quality. The world loves a grin
and has no use for the scowl. Apply
this rule to Auction or Contract and you will soon get the point. It's the player who can take his losses and bad breaks with a grin who gets there. He isn't rattled himself and, what is even more to the point, he doesn't rattle his partner.

Think over in your own mind how many tricks you have lost, either by losing your own temper or causing your partner to lose his. Loss of temper inevitably means loss of tricks. Every one cannot be an expert, but every one
can and should be an agreeable player.
Keep your temper and your grin and
the tricks will take care of themselves.
There's nothing like a good temper as a
sound foundation for successful play.

If you don't believe it, try it out, not
for one night or one week, but for several months. If you haven't matterially improved your play and your bank account by that time, then I shall be very much surprised. Remember, the smile wins at Auction or Contract, as it does everywhere else.

It usually is on the bidding that the big losses occur, both at Auction and
Contract, and the three following hands
are good examples, bringing up, as they do, points in bidding that the average player should know and understand.

There are songs in the air,
In the vast somewhere,
That were voiced by a brother remote;
They are wending toward you
To make your life new,
If your heart is but tuned to their note.
There are words, there are names,
That will kindle the flames,
That die in the depth of the soul;
They will make your path bright,
Or draw the deep night
Round your life like a darkening scroll.
You are singing a song
To a world-wide throng,
That is hastily crossing your way;
And the peace that you strow,
And the love that you sow,
Will respond in your brother some day.—Selected.

Speech for Heydler?
 Heydler should be done about a new speech for John A. Heydler, who is president of the National League, will break forth into oratory suggestive of another baseball season. Already we can hear him: "Expect a tight six-club race in the National League, with the other teams showing remarkably improved strength in all departments of the game. Last year was the biggest season we ever had, in point of attendance. But, despite the depression, this year may show a steady increase in the popularity of the national pastime."
 The odd part about the speech is that Heydler is nearly always right. The National League is always tough, because of the uneven distribution of playing strength. And the season's receipts usually outdo the intake of the season before.

A New Note
 It would be easy for Prexy Heydler to change the tone of his speech this year, add news value and make it something of which the league could be proud. With the aid of the league's club owners, Prexy Heydler would be able to make the following immortal lines:
 "Owing to the state of economic depression through which the country is passing, the league this year will turn over the opening day's receipts for the relief of the unemployed poor."
 Under the circumstances, that would be about as pretty a speech as Prexy Heydler could make. And, while plagiarism is to be avoided wherever possible, the speech would be a good one for Prexy E. S. Barnard of the American League to copy. The danger of Prexy Heydler's Prexy Barnard for copying his speech would be slight.

Improvements
 Trading of players and new acquisitions from the minors have not come up to the volume of former years. It appears the ivory market is passing through a period of readjustment, too.
 The Cubs, by reason of Rogers Hornsby's activities, look to be the most helped. Three veteran pitchers have been added to the roster—Jake May of the Reds, Lester Sweetland of the Phils and Bob Smith of the Braves.
 The Robins have added hitting strength. The Cardinals will have two new pitchers when the campaign begins, Dean and Derringer—and of Dean it is expected, much will be heard.
 Mechanically the Giants led the league during the season of 1930—fielding and batting at the top. It was pitching the McGraw clan lacked, and improvements in this department are expected this year.
 Mr. Heydler—or Mr. Barnard—could mention a few of these matters in the training season speech—but how about that other part, about the opening day's receipts? It would be bound to make a hit.

Unlucky Thirteen Lucky
For Football Player
 BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—There will be competition for No. 13 on the University of California football squad next season as a result of Ted Beckett's great record.
 Beckett inherited the proverbially unlucky number at the close of 1928's football season and wore it two years. During the two long campaigns he played errorless football and suffered no serious injury. He ended his collegiate football career with being elected one of five of the major all-American teams.

Devil Dog Baseball Team Tours Japan
 SHANGHAI.—(U.P.)—"A good will baseball tour of Japan," was recently conducted by the Fourth Marines baseball team, made up of U. S. Devil Dogs stationed in Shanghai.
 Playing against various club, college and university teams, the Marines made a 714 percentage by winning 10 out of 14 contests. They covered the mainland from Kobe to Yokohama and were showered with hospitality.
 This is believed to have been the first such trip of any athletic team from the armed forces of the United States covering so much territory and making such a good record.

 COACH CHUCK BASSETT

FAYETTEVILLE.—After perfecting loose cogs for more than a month of experimental barnstorming, Head Coach Charles "Chuck" Bassett now has a well-oiled University of Arkansas cage machine that has settled down to the humdrum of attempting to grind out a sixth successive South west Conference title.
 Despite the fact that two of his brightest bolts, Wear Schoonover, all-American forward, and Roy Previtt, all-conference guard, were missing when he started to assemble his championship machine this season, Bassett said nothing. But his mechanical brain was busy.
 He knew he had three veterans to start with, in Captain Jim Pickren at forward, Kenny Holt at center, and Milan Creighton as guard. His greatest worry to get a machine that would "click" would be to find two bright bolts from the sophomore ranks that would hold the machine together.
 So in the fresh heap of basketball material he hummaged. For more than a month he tried this piece and that piece. Finally he found two ideal cogs that were needed to perfect his machine. They are: James "Doc" Sexton, guard, and Tom Murphy, a former running mate to Captain Pickren back in high school, at the offensive post.

"All are six-footers. True, they are not the big-boned type of past Razorback teams but they are running just as smoothly now as any Arkansas cage machine ever did," Chuck Bassett said. And the man who is greasing this human machine should know.

Hope Wins Games Over Lockesburg

Local Team Will Go to Hot Springs Friday for Game

The Hope High Bobcats won two games Wednesday over Lockesburg, making it four in a row, having defeated the Lewisville boys last Friday in two games. The local team has a good record having played four games and won all of them.
 The Bobcats were hard pressed to win the afternoon game by the score of 15-13. The teams were evenly matched and first one team and then the other would gain the lead. When the half ended Hope was slandering 9-7, but when play was resumed Lockesburg gained the lead and it was not until the closing minutes of play that the locals gained their margin.
 The first quarter of the night game looked like a walk-away for Lockesburg, who were leading 8-0. Soon after the second quarter started the Bobcats tried for five free throws and netted all of them. This seemed to get them started and they made several field goals and evoked the score. Late in the fourth quarter Hope gained their lead of three points and tightened their defense and Lockesburg was unable to make another basket.
 For the afternoon game Harrel was high point man with 10 points, for Hope and Pickren led the visitors. Pickren led in the night game with 10 points while Wray and Fritchett tied for Hope.
 Hope goes to Hot Springs Friday to play a game with the Hot Springs High School team.
 There will be three games played at the Armory Friday night, the Spring Hill girls and boys' teams will play the teams from Laneburg, Washington will also have a game but their opponent has not been announced.

College Sports in Okla. Assailed

Gov. Murray in First Message to the Legislature Gives Sports Rap

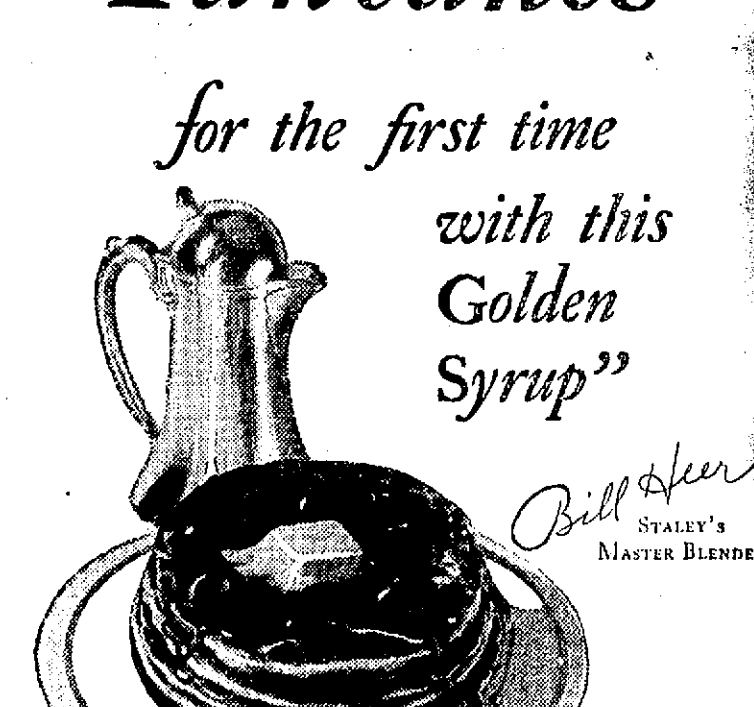

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(P)—College sports received a vigorous rap from Governor William H. Murray in his first message to the Oklahoma legislature.
 "The most deplorable thing of all our educational errors is the placing as the Shibboleth and slogan of our institutions, the subject of 'ball playing' and other sports," the governor asserted. "It is but giving reward and applause for physical strength."
 The governor's statements on this subject did not come as a surprise, as he often criticized "over-emphasis" on college sports in his address as well as advocating a general curtailment in state school budgets.
 "The people could afford to pay for sports in the educational institutions to a limited extent," he said, "but aggregate sum anggh—khrdmmn when it comes to a university paying an aggregate sum of $32,000 for instructors in sports alone, not counting the other expenses, incident and the expense of players, it is entirely too much."

"You'll Discover Pancakes for the first time with this Golden Syrup"

"Our Golden Blend has the true old-time 'sugar-house syrup' flavor. A lot of folks today don't know what that means—but down South, where I learned syrup making nearly fifty years ago, it meant a lot.
 "We flavor our Golden Syrup with premium grade syrup from the first run of the best cane sugar refineries. But the real knack is blending at the right times and temperatures—to bring out all the mellow smoothness and flavor."

For GINGER'S SAKE

BY ETHEL HUESTON
© 1930 THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER was born, Ginger's father was a minister, and her mother, the former "PHIL" VAN DOORN, a very wealthy woman, but life in the little town of Red Bank, Iowa, ran too slowly to suit Ginger and her set. So she announced to her friends, EDDY JACKSON, PATTY SHAYS and WESLEY MERRICK, that she was going to start a home for the blind.

To JENNY BROOKS, former school teacher, wife of old BENNY BROOKS, and an ally whom she could trust implicitly, she confided her intention of organizing a Junior Country Club, she asked Jenny to act as her agent in the purchase of the Mill Bush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old farm house, from JOPLIN WESTBURY. The rest of her plans were left in her head, unformulated.

"Yes," she told Jenny, "she sure is bringing him down in his price. About half of what he asks will be right."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

"A Junior Country Club," Ginger said. "That's the ticket. No parents allowed."

"A Junior Country Club," she said succinctly. "That's the ticket. No parents allowed, no preachers admitted, and the first member that has a baby gets chucked out on his head."

"Oh, Ginger, that's just priceless," said Patty warmly.

"Okay here," said Wesley. "Tio the can on school-teachers and aunts, too, will you?"

"It has its points," said Eddy guardedly, for he knew Ginger.

"But I foresee impedimenta."

"Well, you needn't bother pointing them out," said Ginger. "You're almost too old to belong in the first place. And if you begin pointing out impedimenta, you are too old. I suppose we'll have to make room for the older high-school boys."

"What, those infants? Still in swaddling clothes and—"

"To do the work," explained Ginger thoughtfully. "There's going to be a heap of work to do, and all the older boys have summer jobs. We won't let them join—we'll just encourage them to take a sort of interest. There'll be oodles of work before that place is ready."

Eddy Jackson knitted his brows thoughtfully. "Oodles of work, eh? And there's a place is there? You've really got an idea, have you?"

"Yes, I have an idea," said Ginger pleasantly. "But of course it's ment, leaving him alone once more to the casual care of a disinterested world.

Upon one thing she had set her heart. Either with her or without, Benny should never again become a public charge if she could help it, and she was going to help it.

She began immediately to save one-tenth of every cent of money that came into her possession, depositing it in a postal savings account, for she did not trust banks, save as they do so much of human personality. But the postal service being in the munificent hand of the United States was scarcely less to be trusted than the well-known hand of Providence itself. And certainly when the United States should cease to exist she would have no further need for her savings.

In the old orthodox days of her intimate connection with the personage she had practiced tithing, taking a tenth part of her income "for the Lord," as she said, although it reached him by the somewhat devious route of church societies, poor baskets and foreign missions. But in the new responsibility which she had so bravely assumed, she found that to deduct from her small salary one-tenth for the Lord and one-tenth for postal savings subjected her household to painful privations.

JENNY had never been able to cope successfully with spiritual problems so she trustfully took hers straight to Mr. Tolliver. Jenny was one of those who, in the very presence of glaring ministerial mistakes in the conduct of their own affairs, was able to retain implicit confidence in the wisdom of the cloth as concerned the affairs of others.

Nor was her confidence in this case misplaced. Mr. Tolliver listened sympathetically to the statement of her problem and then took both her thin hard hands in his.

"My good friend," he said, "anything you are doing from day to day, or any safeguards you are building for the future, for that poor blind husband of yours, you are doing for the Lord, yes, a thousand times more definitely for Him than the majority of our church activities. Postal savings for Benny is more practical service for the Lord than the collection plate for foreign missions. It is a noble example of the 'cup of cold water in my name.'"

"I suppose some of the ladies will criticize me," she began wistfully.

But he patted her hands and laughed. "Now, Jenny!" he chided her. "Is this between you and the Lord, or you and the ladies?"

Happily she was able to believe it as if it were the very Gospel, and she proceeded cheerfully to practice small economies that in the old days she had never dreamed of.

Now, suddenly, in Ginger's surprising proposition, she saw unsuspected avenues of income. If she and Benny gave up their rooms in town and went to the country for the summer, she would certainly save the amount of three, and possibly four, months' rent. She would have a garden, there would be fruit, and Ginger had promised to take care of all household expenses.

Red Lantern Didn't Save Negro Sweeper

OMAHA, Neb.—(U.P.)—John Union, negro street car track sweeper, thought he had solved the "hit-and-run" problem when he took to wearing a red lantern on his back. He thought so, at least, until a motorist weaving his car back and forth across the street attempted to play hide and seek with the frightened Union.

Union was "tagged" and indignant witnesses to the game, picked him up, cut and bruised.

Union's red lantern was completely demolished.

Dangerous Business

Our stomach and digestive systems are lined with membrane which is delicate, sensitive and easily injured. It is dangerous business, then, to use medicines containing harsh drugs, salts or minerals, when we are constipated. In addition to the possibility of injuring the linings of our digestive system, these medicines give only temporary relief and may prove habit forming. The safe way to relieve constipation is with Herbine, the cathartic that is made from herbs, and acts in the way nature intended.
